

WHAT IS PARTNERING ?

Are you hitting a wall in your research, development, or public relations activities?

There is an interesting company but I don't know how to contact the right person in charge...

It's difficult to have in-depth conversation at a booth...

Scheduling meetings takes too much time...

The Partnering System* at this exhibition is a business platform that realizes “partnering” so that you can always meet your target clients and potential clients, instead of relying on chance and random encounters.

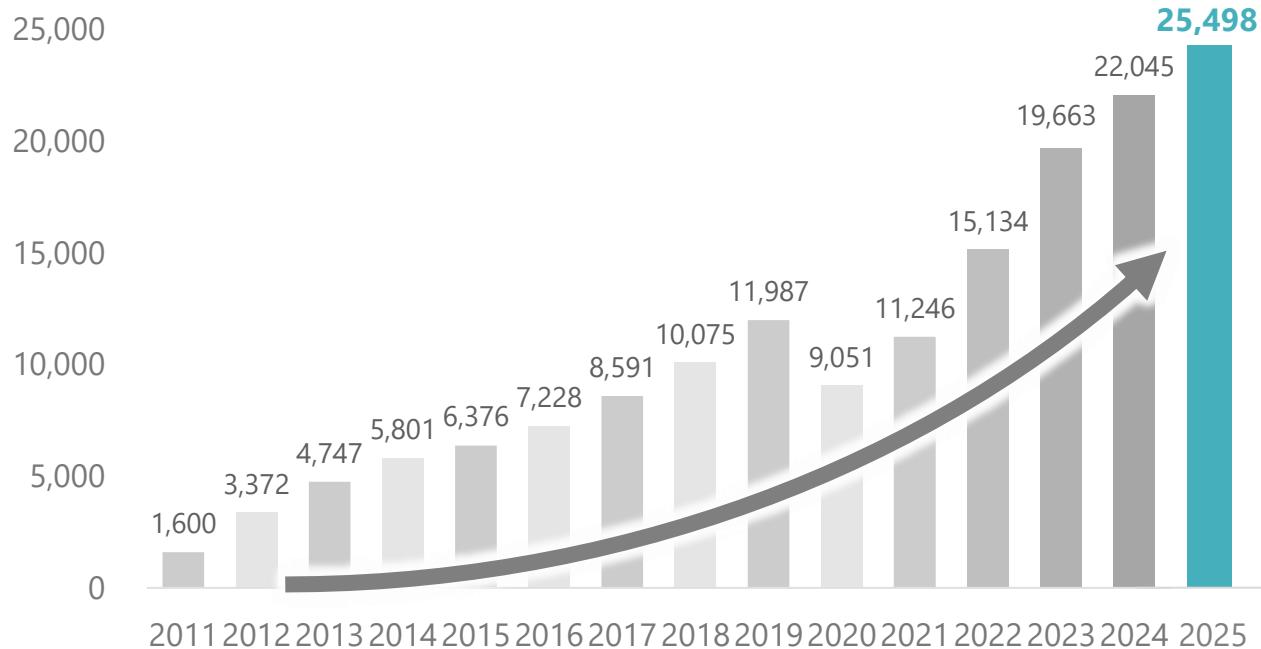

01

What is Partnering ?

The Partnering consists of our proprietary "Partnering System", which allows you search for partnering participants on the system, and "On-site Partnering area" where you can conduct meetings.

Advantages of Partnering

1

Reaching a Large Number of Participants by Targeting High-Interest within the System

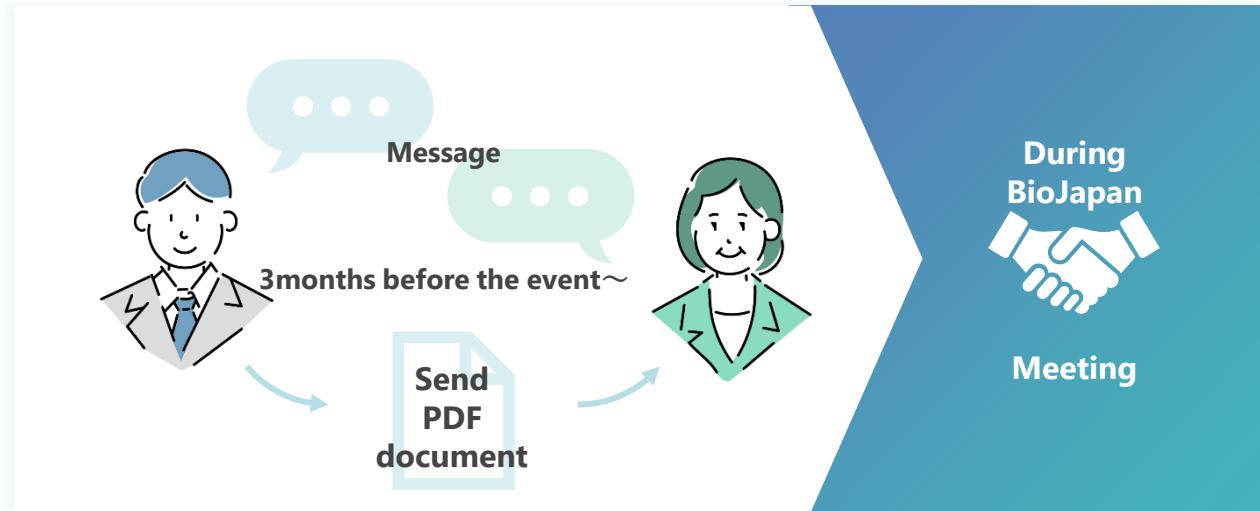

In addition to exhibitors, our event gathers highly motivated attendees who have purchased paid accounts, indicating a strong interest in business negotiations.

Participants can directly message potential partners with a promising asset or pipeline. Given that most participants have a clear purpose, each contact is likely to lead to high-precision business discussions.

2

Schedule Efficiently, Conduct Productive Meetings

The partnering system starts operating three months prior to the event. Through the partnering system, representatives can exchange messages and send PDF documents related to products & technology. By exchanging information before the event, participants can swiftly delve into specific discussions during the scheduled business meetings.

The system also includes features such as auto scheduling meetings, which reduces the burden of scheduling, and allows participants to focus on the details of their discussions.

3

Inform Your Marketing Strategies

By Registering detailed information about your company's technology and needs, you increase the likelihood of receiving messages from those who find your offerings appealing.

Since each participant has registered and shared their profiles, you have the opportunity to identify potential customers and discover potential applications for your company's offerings.

“Because the matching system is much easier to use than at other exhibitions, we were able to obtain interview opportunities with around 20 new companies this year.”

As a result of interviews with about 10 companies each year using the matching system, two joint research projects were established with major foreign pharmaceutical companies and domestic reagent manufacturers, and research funding was obtained.

The matching system is very effective because it enables business meetings with companies that we did not know how to contact. Many companies were eager to hear about our technology and asked for detailed explanations of their products at the booth. A nondisclosure agreement was signed after the exhibition, and negotiations are underway for joint development.

<Received an appointment request from JCD TEST at BioJapan>

Hi! It has been a while since we last met.

Thank you again for our meeting at last year's BioJapan.

We have a new hit compound and DDS technology that encapsulates 2-Deoxy-D-Glucose in nanoparticles, and we would like to discuss the possibility of collaboration with your company again this year.

We would be grateful if you could stop by our booth this year as we are also exhibiting at the show.

Thank you very much.
